The steps to creating bespoke sauna

- + Plan the shape and layout – Helo’s efficient insulated panel system allow us to produce a sauna to almost any size.
 - + Choose the timber finish – such as our traditional Spruce panelling with small light knots for the renowned “Pine” fragrance, light smooth Aspen for a modern look, or characterful Cedar with its unique scent and random finish. See our wood page for more options.
 - + Select a door style – standard bronze tinted glass with threshold or upgrade to the wider, no threshold version and tile through from the surrounding area. Need to match the steam room? No problem. We can supply the same door for each.
 - + Add windows to give the cabin an airy open feel – there’s even opening windows with a multi-rebate for a snug fit to keep the heat in.
- + Plan your sauna heater – the heart of the sauna. No one offers more options than Helo. Regular models all feature lots of rock for good steam. Increase the versatility of sauna with our FUSION model with digitally controlled steam generator for a wider choice of temperature. Convenience and style meet with special cool-wall models which can be built-in to the benches. See heater pages for more information.
 - + Consider adding some luxuries – the mood enhancers which really make sauna a special experience. With feature lighting, music and fragrance you will influence the senses and greatly enrich the sauna bathing experience. See optional extras page for more details.
 - + All Helo saunas include a useful range of accessories but check our accessories page for any extras you may like to add.

When your specification is settled simply ask Helo to make you a plan and quotation. Our experienced staff are at your disposal to fine tune your sauna and ensure it meets your precise wishes.

Once your order is agreed, we'll give clear, concise information on site preparation and schedule the fitting of the sauna by our own carpenters to suit your programme. A streamlined process to guarantee the minimum of fuss and a sauna cabin tailored for you! And with Helo quality and our 3-year warranty, you can rely on years of trouble free service.

BESPOKE WOOD TYPES

SCANDINAVIAN QUALITY

There's a good reason we only use wood in our saunas. Specifically, high quality Scandinavian or northern climate wood. Trees from the far north grow much slower because of the extreme climate, increasing their density. This makes them much better at withstanding the wide daily temperature and humidity fluctuations of your sauna. Our ancestors knew this, which is why they chose solid northern wood as the only construction material in their saunas—inside and out.

All our wood is quality inspected at its source before transportation to the factory, where the logs are cut and planed. Each individual tree has its own character in colour and structure. These are distinctive signs of a natural product, showing its exclusive, individual character, with no impact on final quality.

HOW HELO USES WOOD

- + Sauna cabin structure and exteriors are made of low-resin varieties such as Spruce, Pine, Canadian or European Hemlock.
- + Interior fittings are made of special Abachi softwood, which is splinter free, smooth and durable with very low heat retention
- + We NEVER use low quality chipboards or plywood. Every part of your Helo sauna is made with solid wood planks

WHY WE USE WOOD EXCLUSIVELY IN OUR SAUNAS

- + No material other than wood is used to build your sauna, with the exception of decorative elements on the outside of the cabin
- + Wood has low heat conductivity. This means we can touch it even at high temperatures without risk of burning ourselves.
- + Its natural fibre structure allows it to absorb steam and moisture and release it again, making it ideal for saunas
- + Wood is stable and durable, muffles sound and radiates a pleasant, natural warmth

Woods used in Helo saunas

NORDIC SPRUCE

Low-resin, slowly-grown northern classic is durable and dense with many small character-enhancing knots.

CANADIAN HEMLOCK

A very strong and dense dark red wood with a distinctive fine-grained structure. Low resin, knot-free.

NORDIC PINE

Durable with a smooth, nearly knot-free character that creates an even, warm-looking surface.

RED CEDAR

Has very little resin, yet still has that characteristic Cedar smell. Cedar colours can range from red to dark brown.

ASPEN

From the poplar family, Aspen is a clear, light wood that is excellent for interior fittings.

THERMO TREATED ASPEN

Aspen panel, heat treated to darken its hue – attractive in contrast with Blond Aspen or Abachi. The treatment also makes the timber more stable so excellent for use in cabins using Steamy heaters.

ABACHI SOFTWOOD

Soft wood, knot- and splinter-free. One of the few woods we use that is not native to northern climates. Creates an even, warm-looking surface.

MANY OTHER WOOD TYPES AVAILABLE ON REQUEST

The choice of the sauna enthusiast, durable 12.5 mm Nordic Spruce panelling.

Red Cedar from North America gives a distinctive fragrance and look.

Aspen has a unique heat conductivity resistance—it stays comfortable to the touch, regardless of temperature.

Trim in Abachi softwood, as well as benches, headrests, back rests, duckboard, bench aprons, heater guard rail and light unit.

DESIGNER SAUNAS

If you are seeking a high quality, luxury sauna cabin with striking appearance, Helo's team of designers have produced a unique line of models. Each with its own character and suitability for both modern and traditional settings. Some in fixed sizes – stunning as part of a pool or wellness complex – and others which may be built to size and with variable external finishes to blend in with rooms around the house.

You will find designs using large glazed panels and dark timbers to evoke light and shade – traditional log models cleverly formed in modules to present a contemporary appearance and the use of contours and contrasting materials in interiors far removed from the common “wooden box” image which many have of sauna.

Whichever model you choose you may be sure of careful attention to detail and thoughtful touches which will set your sauna apart from the norm!

DESIGNER SAUNA CABINS

GARDEN SAUNAS

As any committed sauna bather will confirm, nothing compares to the experience of sauna in a solid log chalet. Using solid Spruce logs as a natural insulator in combination with lots of steam from the genuine Finnish heater, the warmth, comfort and “one with nature” feeling is simply unique.

Helo log cabins use specially selected, kiln dried logs either in pre-made modules for easy assembly or laid horizontally with the traditional cross lap-lap jointing providing that quaint garden cottage look.

And outdoor saunas bring a double benefit – not only do you save space in the house but also gain a real enhancement to your garden.

As always with Helo you have a wide choice. Whichever suits you best, you can share Helo’s expertise in planning designing, and installing your sauna with the minimum of fuss.

GARDEN SAUNAS

BARREL SAUNA

Helo Barrel saunas have a real “back to nature” feel about them. Constructed in sturdy 42mm thick selected Spruce boards into the pleasing barrel shape, they bring great character to the garden and offer a snug, cosy interior either as a sauna-only, or with useful extra ante-room.

A warm dry interior is guaranteed by oiled timbers, steel support bands and the felted roof which attractively laps over the top half of the cabin. The traditional experience is further enhanced by the inclusion of a wood burning heater with chimney – so you enjoy sauna just as the Finns do in their summer retreats!

Safety is guaranteed by a generous surround of heat proof board to protect the floor and adjacent wall areas whilst the light Spruce interior and Aspen furniture mean the supplied LED battery lantern offers all the light you require – no expensive or awkward electric cable to run in the garden!

Barrel sauna is perfect on decking in the garden – shown in the darker heat treated Spruce with black roof tiles

All Barrel Saunas feature:

- + 42mm Spruce board construction, oiled for protection.
- + Treated floor supports.
- + Felted roof cover to top half of barrel.
- + Safety glass door(s).
- + All interior furniture in light Aspen wood.
- + Battery LED lantern.
- + Authentic wood burning heater and chimney.
- + Sauna accessories.

Tailor the sauna to suit your setting and taste:

- + Roof tiles in Black, Red or Green.
- + Port hole windows (optional extra).
- + Exterior timber in clear oiled finish or “tarred” - the traditional darker finish.
- + Traditional timber door in place of standard safety glass (optional extra).
- + 6kW electric heater in place of wood burner.

Helo Barrel saunas are the most durable and efficient available. Unlike other models, Helo includes a complete felt tiled roof to avoid any tiresome leaking caused by movement in the timber. The solid Pine logs are supplied as standard with a clear and dark oil for further protection but for the ultimate finish – extra protection and a “weathered” appearance – you can specify your Barrel Sauna in Heat Treated Spruce – Ask for details.

INFRARED SAUNA

Infra Red treatment has long been favoured for relieving aches and pains by improving circulation and loosening the muscles.

The latest cabins with safe, Far Infra Red heat absorbed directly into the body are chosen by those who wish to prepare for exercise, relax for longer periods in the gentle heat, or find the higher temperatures of traditional sauna too intense.

The latest technology...

Striving always to remain at the forefront of sauna innovation, Helo group is proud to offer the world's first Infra Red cabins which beat the stringent Swedish standards for this technology – less than 2 milligauss Electro-Magnetic Radiation (EMR) and less than 8 volts per metre Electrical Frequency Radiation (EF) – an energy saving of more than 20% on previous models.

For those who require a more delicate heat for treatment, or simply prefer the softest sauna experience, Helo Far Infra Red cabins offer different benefits from the much feted traditional Finnish sauna with rock heater. Ideal for treating aches and pains, preparing for exercise or simply to promote restful sleep, the design of these compact cabins with the latest CarbonFlex heaters ensures all-round heat for bathers.

New contemporary design...

Matching the state-of-the-art technology is a new cleaner design – a fully glazed fascia with discrete Hemlock panelling gives all models an open, spacious feel to blend in with adjacent furniture. Subtle improvements – three-way illumination with soft valance up lights, ceiling reading lights and colour light therapy, hidden speaker system for radio and MP3 and new touch control panel with stereo built in – all combine to bring you the most complete infrared cabin available today.

■ LUXUS S features:

- ✚ Low EMR and low EF – exceeding the strictest Swedish standards.
- ✚ Fully glazed fascia in clear safety glass.
- ✚ New CarbonFlex heaters with Even Heat system reducing power requirement by 20%.
- ✚ Touch screen control for all functions including stereo/MP3/USB for iPod.
- ✚ Comprehensive lighting for cabin, reading and colour therapy.
- ✚ All models plug directly into a standard socket.
- ✚ Available in 7 sizes including 2 space saving corner models.

■ SAUNA - INFRARED OR TRADITIONAL?

The question most often asked of our sales staff is: "which should I choose – traditional or Infra Red?"

The answer is both!

Infra Red, which heats the body directly, is ideal to use as preparation for a work out, to treat aches and pains, or in the evening to ensure a good night's sleep. Traditional sauna is a great social occasion to be shared with family and friends – the ultimate relaxer and skin cleanser with the added twist of magic – the Finnish löyly where a little water is sprinkled on the rocks to prompt a steam sensation!
