ABOUT AIZKRAUKLE:

Aizkraukle is known as the place where the light is born in the Daugava River. The town on the banks of the Daugava River was founded at the same time as the construction of the Plavinas hydroelectric power station began. At that time it was called Stučka, but since 1990 it's proudly called Aizkraukle.

Aizkraukle is still a new, developing and improving town. Everyone can find something to do here - play sports, enjoy culture, go on educational excursions to museums and exhibitions, relax at the spa, explore the wide world of gastronomy and much more.

Area: 12,9 km²
Population: 6689 (2025)
